OUR TOWN

By J. B. W.

Saw a billboard yesterday in Cameron. It reads: 'Forward America. Business is good, let's keep it good. You can't stop U. S.' Neat propaganda but maybe true. America is prosperous to be sure. The balance sheets of industry are notable. Down in the cotton area prosperity is now a thing to be desired. Other sections may feel the same reaction to this but America is prosperous. Propaganda has been defined as the difference between truth and error. It's power is psychological and came into wide use during the late war. If mass spirit can be lifted up by it again, who objects. America is prosperous.

Twelve hundred riot in Cleveland for 'work and wages.' The basic industry of the country becomes an issue in the preisdential campaign. Relief comes through a stabilizing corporation and this is followed by a steady decline in farm products. Manufacturers restrict their production schedule for 1930 and raise the price of goods to insure an average return. The country is prosperous. Forward America! If you don't believe it is prosperous, consult the statistician. He can point to the balance sheets of industry to prove it.

Now comes this remarkable story of suffering and neglect on the borderlands of the old Sultans. It is the story of a city of blind people groping their way through centuries in turbulent Turkey. A strange, sad tale of suffering and patience and we think of Kipling's 'City of Dreadful Night.'

Now that communications have been opened partially in Turkey's long-isolated turbulent eastern provinces, travelers are bringing to the world news of the existence of a hidden and dreadful village: Adiyaman, the village of the blind.

In the dusty, sandy district of Hisnimansour, not far from the city of Malatia, lies this village of whose 7000 inhabitants 6791 are wholly or partially sightless through the ravages of trachoma.

It is a village without sound except for the tap, tap of hundreds of canes on cobbled roads as the population gropes its way through a ghostly life from blind childhood to blind old age and death. Through Adiyaman's squalid dung-thatched huts and dust-polluted alleys, squalid dusty human beings crawl like animals without eyes. Utterly disregarded by the old regime of the sultans, the village has for centuries been without a school or hospital. Without solace or help its peasant population, stricken generation after generation by trachoma has made its living painfully and half blindly through farming and herding.

Five times a day, year after year, this derelict population has filled the village mosque to pray to Allah. Their prayers have not mentioned their affliction, for according to the Moslem faith, complaints arouse the wrath of destiny. The prayers of even the most wretched followers of Islam thank Allah for what they have, lest worse befall. The village is utterly unlighted at night for there are only a handful of villagers who could see by any light. Adiyaman is probably the only place in Anatolia where Moslem women wear no veils. For the women of Adiyamen, religious as they are, no veils are necessary beyond the veil of universal blindness which hides a woman even from her father and husband and child in this sightless village.

The government of Mustapha Kemal is struggling to combat the trachoma peril here and in all the surrounding district. Doctors have been dispatched to the province and clinics opened. Already within a brief period the government has spent $75,000 on the treatment of 155,144 trachoma cases, including the entire population of blind Adiyaman and the af[illegible] in 48 other villages of the Hisnimansour district.

Tomorrow is St. Valentine Day. Many people observe it but know nothing of its origin. Authority is somewhat dim on the subject of its origin, but it is believed to have come about in memory of St. Valentine, a Bishop who suffered martyrdom under Claudius II, at Rome, or according to others, under Aurehan in 271 A. D. on February 14. The custom of observing Valentine Day lived and died in many countries. It has now fallen into disuse in England and once prevailed in France. It is widely celebrated in America and has been made the occasion of smart merchandising by keen traders in the marts of commerce. Still there remains a

BOY SCOUT WEEK IS ATTRACTING INTEREST

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE NAMES OFFICERS FOR YEAR AS TROOPS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

National Boy Scout Anniversary Week is being observed in Cameron in a tangible manner, according to F. E. Jackson, president of the Heart O' Texas Council. NEED FOR HIGHWAY DESIGNATION TOLD

ROAD TO HOUSTON OBJECT OF PARLEY WITH HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

Designation of Highway 44 from Cameron to LaGrange must be made before any definite work can be done toward getting a paved road through to Houston, it became known here Wednesday when Wm. Cobb, secretary of the commercial club, discussed the proposed route.

According to Mr. Cobb the highway known as the Sap highway has been designated as far south as Cameron and must be designated by the Highway Commission from Cameron to LaGrange.

Leaders in Burleson and Fayette counties in the persons of county judges Schollson and Lueders have asked county judge Jeff T. Kemp of Milam county to cooperate in laying this matter before the highway commission to get the highway designated to LaGrange. When this has been accomplished the route will be open for state aid the plans for topping will be in order.

This route will give a direct route to Houston and the Mexican border and will direct travel through this section of the state, now diverted over longer routes.

At noon on March 5 there will be a helper for the internal revenue collector at the Milam county court house.

Mr. R. D. Brown, Vice President

Dear Mr. Brown:

Congressman Johnson has very kindly delivered to me the two flies. I shall get a great deal of pleasure out of experimenting with them.

Yours faithfully,

President Hoover now on a ten day fishing trip off the coast of Florida has in his tackle box two flies made and presented to him by R. D. Brown of Cameron.

The bait was presented to the President before he left Washington by Congressman Luther Johnson on the request of Mr. Brown who mailed the flies to the Congressman.

Mr. Brown is not only a good fisherman but constructs flies and artificial baits that are declared the equal of any to be found in the country. The Herald presents herewith the interesting exchange of letters including one from the President to Mr. Brown in which he says he will be glad to experiment with the flies in Southern waters. Also is presented a dispatch from Washington telling of the incident:

804 GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL HERE SUNDAY

ATTENDANCE OF 1760 EXPECTED BY EASTER SUNDAY AT CLOSE OF CAMPAIGN

A total of 804 pople attended Sunday school Sunday morning at the churches that are taking part in the community campaign which is to end on Easter Sunday with a hoped-for attendance of 1760. Not quite half of the goal of attendance has been reached, and the drive has been in progress for two Sundays.

It is encouraging, however, to note that each church had a substantial increase over the Sunday before. The Baptist church continues to lead with the highest attendance. There were 349 present last Sunday in comparison with 282 on the Sunday before. The Methodist attendance grew from 233 to 266, the Presbyterian from 70 to 90, the Christian from 48 to 58, and the Church of Christ from 29 to 41.

Buttons to be used in the campaign have been ordered and it is hoped that they will be here soon so that the drive may take a more visable form.

Mail Delivery Now Depends On Naming Streets and Numbers

Extension and success of free mail delivery in a large section of the city depends on naming streets and numbering houses in the city according to H. E. Garner, who presented this matter to the Commercial Club on Monday night.

The matter has been refered to the Civic Improvement Committee and may be brought soon to the attention of the City Council. This has been urged for a number of years but nothing definite has as yet been done.

Last Tuesday suits and equipment were issued to the candidates for the baseball team. A large squad is reporting and the boys are getting down to work in earnest. Mr. Strickland is expecting to have a good team, as there is a wealth of good material.

A schedule has not been made as yet, but Mr. Strickland has been talking with other schools with regard to games.

All of the boys are enthused over the prospects and are going to try and make this a record year. They have been sharpening the old battin eye and limbering up their arms fo several days while the good weather permitted. Regular practice is being held every afternoon now.

DANCE AT SKEEZIX

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Tapp and son and Mr. and Mrs. George Randall and two children were guests Sunday of Mrs. Frank Monroe.

REQUESTS STATEMENT

Cameron Herald,

Cameron, Texas,

We have just had the City Primary and selected officers for the next two years. Not enough general interest to bring out a full vote. The old administration has been endorsed, which is a great compliment and also a great responsibility. We have a high tax rate and a high assessment valuation, and the people are interested in this. They pay the taxes and have a right to know where the money comes from for what it is spent, and who gets it.

Article 1023 of the Revised Statutes of Texas reads: 'Art. 1023. Financial Statement. The City Council shall at least ten days before the expiration of each municipal year cause to be published in a city newspaper a correct and full statement of the receipts and expenditures from the date of the last annual report, together with the sources from which the funds were derived, and showing for what purpose disbursed, the condition of the treasury, together with such information as may be necessary to a full understanding of the financial condition of the city.'

Why not comply with this plain requirement of the law. The people pay the cost of the publication and get the information they want. Publicity in public business is public safety.

TWO WELLS TO SPUD TAYLOR FIELD TODAY

SIX DERRICKS TRAIL FAULT BACK TO MILAM COUNTY LINE

Taylor Press

Drilling equipment was being installed at two locations today, one rig going up at the Sconyers-Wilson well about 2500 feet northeast of the discovery well and the other at the Simms location. Jim Kemp, the driller of the discovery well has the contract for both of these.

It will only be a couple of days now before both of these wells are spudded in and within the next two weeks Taylor will be able to prove without a doubt that it has an oil field of no small proportions.

Five derricks, besides that of the discovery well, are now completed and a sixth one was started today by E. L. Chapman on his lease about three-quarters of a mile southwest of the discovery well.

Within the next week all of these wells will be under way.

Field men for Max Westheimer, Oklahoma promoter, were laying out the location for this well this morning. Their drilling equipment is already here to be put to work.

Anderson Enters Field

Andy Anderson of Ft. Worth, one of the largest independent operators in the Mid-Continent oil fields, has entered the Chapman field with the purchase of 20 acres of the Mrs. G. W. Lawrence tract just 500 yards from the discovery well. The purchase price was $11,500.

It is understood that Anderson has also closed deals for several hundred more acres of proven and semi-proven acreage in the new Williamson county strike and intends to start an intensive drilling campaign at once. The exact location of these leases will be announced later.

Mr. Anderson has been very active in this vicinity for a number of years most of his operations being confined to Washington county where he is now drilling the famous Chapel Hill structure, long having been regarded as one of the famous closures along the Balcones Fault. Reports from that well are most favorable.

When seen at the Blazilmar Hotel this morning Mr. Anderson stated that it was his belief that Chapman, et al., have opened the biggest pool along the great fault area since the Mexia boom. He stated that it is his intention to begin operations here at once, his first well, of course to be drilled on the Lawrence location.

Each adult ticket holder will have a ballot and at the end of the program everyone will cast his ballot for his choice of the stunts. The votes will be collected immediately and counted, and the winner will be announced. The programs during the past five years have been entertaining in a marked degree, and a capacity crowd is always in attendance. School Funds Are Released By Court Decision Monday

W. S. Fly, chief justice of the 4th court of civil appeals, today ordered suspension of the injunction granted by Judge R. B. Minor in 57th district court, restraining the state board of education from spending any part of the $5,000,000 appropriation under the Texas rural aid law.

Judge Fly's announcement interrupted arguments begun this morning by the state. Rice M. Tilley, assistant attorney general, had closed his argument in submitting the case on appeal, and Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt had started to speak.

After a whispered conference between Justice Fly and Edward W. Smith and T. D. Cobbs, associates Judge Fly informed the attorney general that the injunction was suspended. This means that the state board can proceed with the expenditure of the rural aid fund.

Relief has been brought to the rural aid schools of Milam county as a result of the action of Judge Fly at San Antonio. All state aid schools in Texas were affected but the releasing of the funds will insure continuation for normal terms.

Cheese Plant Wants More Milk In Cameron

Milk production needs stimulation in the Cameron territory in order to insure proper output for the cheese plant.

When the plant was opened in 1929 the plan was to make cheese. At that time there was no market and now that the demand has grown the plant is assured a profitable operation if sufficient milk can be produced. The supply must be brought up to the amount received last year. There is no longer any doubt as to the success of the plant and the need now is for more milk. The following is taken from the minutes of the Commercial club meeting Monday night:

Mr. Lesovsky reported for the Dairy Committee, that at a meeting held Monday afternoon the situation was discussed and it was decided to begin a campaign of education in the interest of the cheese plant. He stated that the new manager, Mr. Kirk, is now making first class cheese. for which there is a market at a good price. All that is needed is a larger quantity of milk.

President Jackson suggested that the business men be invited to visit the plant when cheese is being made so they can see for themselves and thus be converted into boosters for the milk plant.

Within the next week all of these wells will be under way.

Field men for Max Westheimer, Oklahoma promoter, were laying out the location for this well this morning. Their drilling equipment is already here to be put to work.

Anderson Enters Field

Andy Anderson of Ft. Worth, one of the largest independent operators in the Mid-Continent oil fields, has entered the Chapman field with the purchase of 20 acres of the Mrs. G. W. Lawrence tract just 500 yards from the discovery well. The purchase price was $11,500.

It is understood that Anderson has also closed deals for several hundred more acres of proven and semi-proven acreage in the new Williamson county strike and intends to start an intensive drilling campaign at once. The exact location of these leases will be announced later.

Mr. Anderson has been very active in this vicinity for a number of years most of his operations being confined to Washington county where he is now drilling the famous Chapel Hill structure, long having been regarded as one of the famous closures along the Balcones Fault. Reports from that well are most favorable.

When seen at the Blazilmar Hotel this morning Mr. Anderson stated that it was his belief that Chapman, et al., have opened the biggest pool along the great fault area since the Mexia boom. He stated that it is his intention to begin operations here at once, his first well, of course to be drilled on the Lawrence location.

School Funds Are Released By Court Decision Monday

W. S. Fly, chief justice of the 4th court of civil appeals, today ordered suspension of the injunction granted by Judge R. B. Minor in 57th district court, restraining the state board of education from spending any part of the $5,000,000 appropriation under the Texas rural aid law.

Judge Fly's announcement interrupted arguments begun this morning by the state. Rice M. Tilley, assistant attorney general, had closed his argument in submitting the case on appeal, and Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt had started to speak.

After a whispered conference between Justice Fly and Edward W. Smith and T. D. Cobbs, associates Judge Fly informed the attorney general that the injunction was suspended. This means that the state board can proceed with the expenditure of the rural aid fund.

Relief has been brought to the rural aid schools of Milam county as a result of the action of Judge Fly at San Antonio. All state aid schools in Texas were affected but the releasing of the funds will insure continuation for normal terms.

Cheese Plant Wants More Milk In Cameron

Milk production needs stimulation in the Cameron territory in order to insure proper output for the cheese plant.

When the plant was opened in 1929 the plan was to make cheese. At that time there was no market and now that the demand has grown the plant is assured a profitable operation if sufficient milk can be produced. The supply must be brought up to the amount received last year. There is no longer any doubt as to the success of the plant and the need now is for more milk. The following is taken from the minutes of the Commercial club meeting Monday night:

Mr. Lesovsky reported for the Dairy Committee, that at a meeting held Monday afternoon the situation was discussed and it was decided to begin a campaign of education in the interest of the cheese plant. He stated that the new manager, Mr. Kirk, is now making first class cheese, for which there is a market at a good price. All that is needed is a larger quantity of milk.

President Jackson suggested that the business men be invited to visit the plant when cheese is being made so they can see for themselves and thus be converted into boosters for the milk plant.

ROMANTIC AMERICA SEEN IN VALENTINE DAY GREETINGS

Romantic lives. Americans have acquitted themselves of the charge of 'crass materialism.'

Like the young men and maidens in the pagan days of ancient Rome, who celebrated the Lupercalia, in honor of Pan and Juno, by drawing from urns names of their Valentines for the year to come, the young men and women of the United States today have the flame of romance burning brightly in their hearts.

Proof of this is found in the great volume of Valentine Day greeting messages sent over Western Union wires last February 14. It was revealed before last Valentine's Day that the volume of telegraphed Valentines had increased more than 500 per cent since 1925.

Last Valentine's Day outdid the most sanguine hopes by piling up an unprecedented total of greetings, topping the 1927 figures by approximately 60 per cent.

Well above 200,000 American husbands, wives, sons, daughters and lovers expressed appropriate sentiments to loved ones by telegraph on the day o fthe year devoted to love.

To meet the requirements of this vogue, approaching even that which it enjoyed in fifteenth century England, Western Union has prepared a special, decorative heading for the Valentine greeting messages. Appropriately colored in orange, red, green and blue, and design shows beaux of old England crowding around a belle of that period with flowers and other presents. In the upper right corner are two red hearts pierced by an arrow.

Considering those who regard Valentine's Day only as an occasion for sending billet-doux, expressing love, the number of Gift Order presents sent through Western Union last February 14 reached an imposing total. In many instances lovers at distant points telegraphed Gift Orders, including appropriate messages.

To aid those who find difficulty in phrasing their messages on Valentine Day, Western Union has prepared, and has on hand in all its offices, folders containing suggested phrases most popular in the past.

The day of the telegram Valentine is here. Expressions of love now turn to simplicity of statement such as that which Shakespeare caused Ophelia to sing:

'Good morrow, 'tis Valentine's Day
All in the morn betime,
And I a maid at your window,
To be your Valentine.'

—Dots and Dashes.

D. A. R. In Election Of Officers Here

A most varied afternoon of business, entertainment, and fun constituted the regular meeting of the Sarah McCalla Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. T. V. Adams hostess at her home at Buckholts. Roll call was answered with opinions concerning Washington.

After the usual routine of business the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Regent. Mrs. R. H. McIntosh; Vice-regent, Mrs. G. T. Moore. Treasurer, Mrs. Graham Gillis; Recording Secretary. Mrs. B. Brewer; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Della Mewhinney of Buckholts; Registrar, Mrs. B. J. Baskin; Genealogist, Mrs. S. P. Cross; Historian, Mrs. Jeff Kemp; and Librarian, Mrs. C. W. Lawrence.

The program for the afternoon consisted of a paper read by Mrs. Mewhinney on the life and achievements of Nathan Hale, the famous patriot of the War of the Revolution. An art contest, in which each member was asked to draw a spinning wheel, furnished much amusement and Mrs. R. H. McIntosh was most successful in doing so.

Mrs. Adams, assisted by her daughter, Miss Gene Adams, served a delicious refreshment course featuring the Valentine motif. As a last feature of the afternoon, the members were invited on the lawn, where they posed for a picture near a mammoth United States flag.

Members from Cameron attending the meeting were Mesdames R. H. McIntosh, Graham Gillis, G. T. Moore T. S. Henderson, Sr., B. J. Baskin, Preston Graves, Lottie Bigbee and Bertha Brewer.

Texas And Texans

By Will H. Mayes

Another Texas Port

The United States board of water engineers and the rivers and harbors committees of Congress have all recommended the Point Isabel port project and it has been put in the congressional emergency bill. Congress will doubtless pass the bill and the president will likely approve it.

That will give the rich Rio Grande Valley and the adjacent territory unsurpassed water shipping facilities to all ports of this country and Europe. It will about complete the line of Texas seaports along the Gulf of Mexico from Port Arthur to the mouth of the Rio Grande and afford all needed ocean outlets for Texas products.

Nothing except the failure of Texans to co-operate with each other can retard the development of this great State. 'All Texans for all Texas' should be our motto.

Widen the Vision

The Mission Enterprise, the splendid paper that Cobb and Cobb are publishing for Hidalgo county, has at its masthead the words, 'For Mission, for Home, for Schools and for Better Things.' That is good as far as it goes, but should be broadened by placing 'for Texas,' after 'Mission.' No Texas community is big enough to stand alone and every community should feel itself an important part of its State. The omission is just an oversight on the part of Editor Cobb, who spends his days and nights dreaming of the future greatness of Texas, at least when he is not at work to make his dreams come true. Another objection to the Enterprise is that it is too big for a busy columnist to read 'through and through.' But of that the publishers will hardly complain.

Fighting Development

It seems that the fight being made by one of the leading Texas railroads against the building of the Kell road from Abilene to Cross Plains is largely because Abilene shippers are subscribers to the stock of the new railroad, and will likely divert some of their shipments to it. That brings the issue to the question of whether the public good is to be subordinated to that of existing railway lines. This writer opines that this will not be done if the public can protect itself.

Texas Fair Record

When a Nebraska congressman asserted in Congress that his State fair had a larger attendance than that of any other State, the statement was promptly challenged by a member from Minnesota. Congressman Sumners at once produced the figures to show that in both 1929 and 1928 the Texas State Fair had a larger attendance than the two fairs of Nebraska and Minnesota combined, and led all the fairs of the United States. Sumners wasn't satisfied with that but declared that 'the State Fair of Texas is perhaps the greatest annual exposition in the world' and had his speech put in the Congressional Record. While congressmen may not be elected to boost fairs and the Congressional Record may not be published to give out fair publicity ,Sumners is right in holding up the Texas standard against all competitors.

San Marcos Airport

San Marcos is to have an airport. Through the interest of the local chamber of commerce and one of the most enterprising county judges in Texas, Judge Will H. Thompson, the Government has leased a 100-acre tract of land, which will be used for emergency landing and refueling and will be supplied with all the equipment of a modern airport. When anything is to be done that will help the town San Marcos can be relied on to do it without making much noise about it.

Creameries Consolidate

The creamery at Brenham has acquired the Giddings creamery and the two will be operated under the same management. Brenham and Giddings are close enough together and so connected by a good highway that there will likely be some economy in the combined management.

Local Industrial Spirit

The Round Rock cheese factory was sold recently to one of the big packing companies. The Round Rock Leader got busy and issued a 16 page edition welcoming the new owners. It was all handset and was an enormous undertaking, several thousand extra copies being printed on a slow press during the coldest weather in January. Round Rockers bought the edition and distributed it all over the country. They filled their show windows with local cheese factory products. All of which boosted the little town as an industrial center. Round Rock also has a broom factory with a State-wide business. The town is not much for size, but what it lacks in population is madeup in civic pride and progressiveness. I am guessing something else will be started there soon.

Texas Rural Life

Texas leads all the States in the number of families served rural mail, Ohio ranking second. A surprising thing about the postoffice report is while Texas leads other States in the numbers served, the rural route carriers cover only 67,783 miles as compared with 72,100 miles for Illinois and 67,014 for Ohio. This would indicate that rural population in sections of Texas covered by rural mail routes is greater than in either Illinois or Ohio. And we are inclined to think of Texas as a thinly settled State.

Fire Prevention Work

A representative of the National Fire Waste Council on a visit to Texas recently said that Texas leads all other States in its fire prevention work, especially in its fire prevention studies in the public schools. But in spite of that Texas fires in 1929, as reported to the insurance board, exceeded those of 1928 about 1,600,000. Fire insurance rates are based on the fire records of each town, each paying premiums according to its fire losses of previous years. Evidently others than the children need to study more about fire prevention.

Improving Poultry Flocks

The Paris chamber of commerce has hit upon a novel plan for building up pure-bred poultry flocks in Lamar county. Through the local merchants arrangements have been made to exchange one pure-bred egg for two eggs from mongrel flocks. The chamber of commerce has contracted for 100,000 or more pure-bred eggs for this exchange on this basis. Farmers will be encouraged to demonstrate for themselves that it pays to raise pure-bred chickens in preference to the common flocks around so many farm houses.

Increasing Tomato Acreage

From Nacogdoches, Jacksonville, Lufkin and other East Texas points reports are made that although the January freeze did damage to tomato plants, plans are under way for planting larger tomato crops than have heretofore been grown. It now looks like Texas will grow enough tomatoes this year to supply the entire country.

Entertaining Club

When the home demonstration club women and girls of Collingsworth county held a meeting in Wellington recently, Deskins Wells, editor of the Leader, gave all of them who called at the Leader office and registered, tickets to a local movie. Needless to say, they called, they registered, they went to the show, they had a good time, and the Leader made many friends. There is more to the newspaper business than merely getting out the paper.

Cutting Out Carnivals

In refusing to permit carnival shows to use city parks, Mayor Chambers of San Antonio said: 'The carnivals do no good, but much harm. The people of the city do not receive value for the money they give the shows. The carnivals were asking for permission to show during San Antonio's spring fiesta. Texas should rid itself of strolling carnival shows.

MELTING SNOW REVEALS BODY OF MAN WHO FROZE JAN. 13; DOG DIES RATHER THAN LEAVE

Guthrie, Ok., Feb. 8.—The body of Bert Crawford, 30, a Kingfisher county farm hand who had been missing since January 13, was found lying beside a timber pasture fence five miles from his home five miles near Kiel. One foot was fast in the mesh of the wire fence and one hand was still grasping his boot. He had evidently caught his foot while climbing the fence and froze to death before he could extricate himself and the body soon covered with snow that has just melted.

He had been hunting and his ax and gun were standing against a fence post and a dead rabbit was buttoned inside his coat. His dog was also found, lying curled under the arm of the master he had refused to desert.

Missouri Lady Says She Got Stronger and Awful Hurting Went Away After She Took Cardui.

Quiin, Mo.—"For some time, I had been having an awful time with pains in my back and sides," says Mrs. Robert Creasy, of this place. "My head would ache until I felt as if it would split open.

"I was very weak and nervous. It looked like the least little thing would upset me. I was cross with the children, and I had no patience for anything.

"Often, when I would get up in the morning, I would have to go back to bed, I was so weak. I dragged through my work, but it took all my strength to do it.

"I tried many remedies, but nothing did me any good until I started taking Cardui. I had read how Cardui had helped others, and so I wanted to try it, myself.

"Cardui proved to be all that was said of it. I took it for several months, regularly. At the end of that time, I was in good health, and have been so ever since. I gained in weight, my appetite was good, and I was able to do all my housework without it hurting me. The pains quit coming."

Thousands of cases similar to that described above have been reported by users of Cardui. NC-210

The Gas Dispatcher's Office in Cold Weather is a Center of Action!

A "blue norther" swoops down with breathtaking suddenness. Gas demands jump two—five—ten times in a few hours—and tax the gas system's entire service facilities for days of bitter cold weather! The gas dispatcher's office—nerve center of the Lone Star gas system—springs into action!

At the gas dispatcher's command is a small army of telephone operators, compressor station attendants, field men, truck drivers, repair men—co-ordinated through 1,200 miles of private telephone wires, vibrating with rapid-fire directions.

Orders to step up the pressure in any or all of 25 compressor stations that the occasion may demand—to rush repair crews to emergency points on six great pipe lines totaling 3,500 miles in length—to turn in special reserve gas wells in 25 different fields and run all wide open—to have all pipe line men ready night or day to keep the gas pressure up at any cost!

Certainly a center of action—a center of service—that more than a million people may have gas continuously, regardless of weather hazards and unprecedented gas demands!

Texas And Texans

By Will H. Mayes

Another Texas Port

The United States board of water engineers and the rivers and harbors committees of Congress have all recommended the Point Isabel port project and it has been put in the congressional emergency bill. Congress will doubtless pass the bill and the president will likely approve it.

That will give the rich Rio Grande Valley and the adjacent territory unsurpassed water shipping facilities to all ports of this country and Europe. It will about complete the line of Texas seaports along the Gulf of Mexico from Port Arthur to the mouth of the Rio Grande and afford all needed ocean outlets for Texas products.

Nothing except the failure of Texans to co-operate with each other can retard the development of this great State. 'All Texans for all Texas' should be our motto.

Widen the Vision

The Mission Enterprise, the splendid paper that Cobb and Cobb are publishing for Hidalgo county, has at its masthead the words, 'For Mission, for Home, for Schools and for Better Things.' That is good as far as it goes, but should be broadened by placing 'for Texas,' after 'Mission.' No Texas community is big enough to stand alone and every community should feel itself an important part of its State. The omission is just an oversight on the part of Editor Cobb, who spends his days and nights dreaming of the future greatness of Texas, at least when he is not at work to make his dreams come true. Another objection to the Enterprise is that it is too big for a busy columnist to read 'through and through.' But of that the publishers will hardly complain.

Fighting Development

It seems that the fight being made by one of the leading Texas railroads against the building of the Kell road from Abilene to Cross Plains is largely because Abilene shippers are subscribers to the stock of the new railroad, and will likely divert some of their shipments to it. That brings the issue to the question of whether the public good is to be subordinated to that of existing railway lines. This writer opines that this will not be done if the public can protect itself.

Texas Fair Record

When a Nebraska congressman asserted in Congress that his State fair had a larger attendance than that of any other State, the statement was promptly challenged by a member from Minnesota. Congressman Sumners at once produced the figures to show that in both 1929 and 1928 the Texas State Fair had a larger attendance than the two fairs of Nebraska and Minnesota combined, and led all the fairs of the United States. Sumners wasn't satisfied with that but declared that 'the State Fair of Texas is perhaps the greatest annual exposition in the world' and had his speech put in the Congressional Record. While congressmen may not be elected to boost fairs and the Congressional Record may not be published to give out fair publicity ,Sumners is right in holding up the Texas standard against all competitors.

THE GETTYSBURG ADDRESS

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a large sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow, this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

—Abraham Lincoln.

CENSURE

Cameron Herald: According to the earliest Roman calendars, the year began with March. Tradition says Numa Pompilius added January. The Romans named the month for their double-headed deity, Janus. With one face looking forward and one looking to the rear he symbolizes a month in which we both look to the future and the past.

If Numa Pompilius really was responsible for putting January in the calendar, we are glad he is dead. No month costs like January. Fuel bills, tax bills, Christmas bills and grocery bills are all due, and large, in January. Numa Pompilius ought to have had sense enough to understand what January would mean ,and the chance is that the fall of Rome was initiated by his recklessness in messing up the calendar. The old Romans were a hardy lot, but January finally got them. Janus, the two faced god, should not have been dishonored by having the worst month named for him. Janus was a good sort. He had enemies, so was given two faces to enable him to look fore and aft, east and west at the same time. His house was a famous place. It was called the Temple of Janus, for great men in those days had temples like they now have summer cottages and houseboats. The Temple of Janus was never closed except in peace time. For that reason it was open most of the year, and Janus had a lot of company house parties, slumber parties and bridge parties. When there was a war going on, Janus closed the temple and lived in the attic. Not that he was afraid of being conscripted, but rather that he had to rest after a season of gayety. Having a face on the back and front of his head, he couldn't sleep except on his side. When he tried sleeping with one of his faces in the pillow he snored and suffocated by turns. In his attic he had a high-back chair with a hole for his face to protrude through. In this he could sleep with one set of eyes and watch out of the window with the other. He had to be vigilent after January was named for him. He was blamed by the people.—State Press in Dallas News.

A TRUE RULE

Among the many utterances of Abraham Lincoln, whose birth we celebrate this week, is the following, 'A true in determining to embrace or reject anything, is not whether it have any evil in it, but whether it have more more of evil in it than good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. Almost everything, especially of government policy, is an inseperable compound of the two, so that our best judgment of the preponderance between them is continually demanded.

A Cleveland bank, an exchange notes, to promote sound investments, featured so ludicrous a get-rich-quick scheme that it would be apparent to the simplest citizen. The bank placed in its window a highly colored poster advertising stock for sale in a fur farm to be operated without cost—the fur to be obtained from cats, who fed on rats, who fed on the skinned carcasses of the cats. At the end was a warning that this absurdity was not greater than the average get-rich-quick scheme. The bank had to remove the poster because, despite the warning, so many persons asked to buy some of the stock.

We trail along with those who believe Marian Talley should be singing instead of farming. There are too many farmers now and not enough good singers. The country generally believes that Marian quit singing because she failed to land a big contract, but with the radio and talkies Marian still has an opportunity to furnish entertainment to her fellows. There are still thousands who would delight to hear her sing and believe that she should let some others who are singing raise the wheat while she keeps up her practice.

The problem of how to keep people at home has been solved by the radio Before the advent of the radio, any time would do for the family to get home, but since a large number of radio fans have been developed, each has a favorite that he wants to get home in time to hear. A local meeting was dismissed recently an hour earlier than it otherwise would have been, because the chairman wanted to get home in time to hear Amos and Andy.

Henry Ford believes that the world's opportunities are just beginning to break.

The city manager form of government is in operation in 430 American cities.

great company of American people who take it seriously for the traditional sentiment of it. There is an old idea that birds began to mate at this time and when romance springs from the snows of winter the young turn to amorous missives on that day. Folk lore and superstition have a large part in the psychological make up of man. It is good in a way. It turns him from the sordid things of life and makes him see birds mating in the spring time, the flowers and the waking life on the morning after the long winter night.

What startling information—this annual toll of flames in America. The following was released by S. P. Cross local insurance agent:

The American people strike seven hundred million matches a day. In the United States 15,000 people were burned to death in 1929 and more than 40,000 persons injured by fire, and many of them crippled for life. Over 300,000 homes were destroyed by fire last year. likewise, 200,000 factories, stores and office buildings, 35,000 farm buildings, 5,000 hotels, 1800 churches, 1800 schools, 700 theaters and 350 hospitals. Besides the people burned to death and those injured for life there were many thousand left homeless on account of fire in 1929.

Fire, water and wind are the three elements of destruction. We can't control wind and water, but as for fire, to a certain extent it can be controled, and from a viewpoint that if we American people do the very best they can with caution when lighting matches, smoking, building fires, or lighting fires in our houses, about the premises, or about our business, the fire losses in this country can be cut down, and one other important thing is that every home or business place should have the electric wireing done properly, for, since the electric light has come into popular use, many fires are being reported throughout the country 'fire by faulty wiring.'

The chain store controversy is taking precedence over a large number of Texas issues. Merchant Minute Men are being organized and at least one candidate for governor has a plank in his platform to aid the local merchants. Recently in Dallas a convention of retail merchants adopted the following as representing the attitude of local merchants and it looks as though 'KWKH and Hello World' Henderson has started something:

'The public is beginning to realize that the big Eastern and Northern owned chain store corporations contribute practically nothing to the upbuilding of Texas towns in which they do business. They do not contribute to the Chambers of Commerce, the churches, charities, 'Y's, Boy or Girl Scouts, community chests, or civic movement. They do not patronize the local insurance men or borrow at the local banks. They stifle the growth of civic pride, paralyze the community spirit, eliminate credit accomodations, and sap the towns of capital. All their profits are sent out of Texas to their headquarters in the North and East. They invest nothing in this State. The situation is a serious one and pregnant with disaster, especially to the smaller towns and eventually to the larger ones.

that I have made and found good. Tell the President that while he is troubled with tariffs and temperence to remember that when the oak leaves get about as large as a squirrel's ear, the red birds will be singing and it will be time to go fishing and when he goes to his camp on the Rapidan I will go to mine on Devil's River and be only two hours drive from that peculiar stream, the Rio Grande that is dry on one side and wet on the other. On the wet side it is no experiment.

R. D. BROWN

February 5, 1930

Mr. R. D. Brown,
Cameron, Texas,
Dear Mr. Brown:

'I have just returned from the White House, where I delivered in person to President Hoover the two fish baits which you sent.

'The President opened the package while I was there, and commented on the bait. He asked me to thank you for sending same to him, and to tell you that they arrived in the nick of time, as he was expecting to leave the latter part of the week for a ten days fishing trip in Florida, and like all good fishermen, he was going to look into the condition of his tackle before starting.

'I made an appointment yesterday to see the President at 11:45 a. m., today, for this purpose, and the press found out I had an engagement there, and wanted to know the object of it, and I think they are going to write a little story about the incident.

'I also delivered to the President the letter which you wrote me concerning the time to go fishing, and about the peculiar stream known as the Rio Grande, but as to this he made no comment.

'With kindest personal regards,

Very truly yours,
LUTHER A. JOHNSON

Washington, Feb. 5.—In an appointment with President Hoover at noon to-day, Representative Luther A. Johnson, Corsicana, presented the chief executive with two fly fish baits compliments of R. D. Brown, viec president of the Cotton Compress Company, Cameron, Texas. The baits, an invention of Mr. Brown, made a timely gift and will be used on Mr. Hoover's contemplated fishing trip off the coast of Florida, planned for the near future.

SIX DERRICKS NOW UP IN NEW FIELD

JIM KEMP'S WELL CONTINUES TO FLOW AS OIL SHOOTS TO CROWN BLOCK

Taylor's new oil field started out on its fourth week today with the Chapman well flowing as strong as ever.

The 112 foot derrick, oil soaked from top to bottom when it was the target for a well that shot a stream of oil over the crown block before being piped into the steel storage tanks, no longer stood alone today to mark the territory where oil was discovered in large quantities. Five other huge towers are now looking down out of the skies to indicate the spot where new test wells will be drilled immediately.

The Simms Oil Company took the jump on the others when its drilling equipment followed out yesterday on the heels of the rapid construction of its steel derrick.

R. R. Forester, the production man for the Simms Company, is here and very much on the job and ready to get going. This well is located on the Lawrence tract about 300 yards east of Chapman's discovery well.

E. L. Chapman completed his derrick yesterday for an offset well about 300 feet southwest on the Walter Fuchs survey.

George B. Peterman and associates have a derrick completed 300 feet northwest of the well and are waiting on the arrival of drilling equipment.

Derricks are completed for two wells to be drilled by J. W. Sconyers and associates which locations on the Abbott tract and the Lawrence tract, both northeast of the discovery well.

A building is also being erected on the southwest corner of the Walter Fuchs tract on the main road which will probably be a store.

R. W. Carter of Luling on whose property 12 wells came in recently was in Taylor yesterday looking over the field and wearing a Jim Abbott smile.

H. W. Elliott, independent operator of Ft. Worth, is here rounding out a 1500 acre solid block on which he says he expects to drill three wells, but at present time would rather not give the locations.

Mr. Elliott is enthusiastic over the prospects of a big field here. He is of the opinion that several rich oil pools will be found along a general line of faulting.

G. I. Moore, independent operator of Ft. Worth, has appeared to be very busy here for the past week but as yet no one seems to know just what its all about.

Mr. Chapman left for Ft. Worth Saturday and had not returned this morning.—Taylor Press.

Information comes from Bryan that Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Marshall were called to Durango, Falls county this week on account of the death of Mrs. Marshall's sister, Mrs. S. M. Myrick. Rev. Marshall is a former pastor of the First Methodist church here and he and his wife have many friends in Cameron who will sympathize with them in their bereavement.

THE GETTYSBURG ADDRESS

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a large sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow, this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

—Abraham Lincoln.

CENSURE

Cameron Herald: According to the earliest Roman calendars, the year began with March. Tradition says Numa Pompilius added January. The Romans named the month for their double-headed deity, Janus. With one face looking forward and one looking to the rear, he symbolizes a month in which we both look to the future and the past.

If Numa Pompilius really was responsible for putting January in the calendar, we are glad he is dead. No month costs like January. Fuel bills, tax bills, Christmas bills and grocery bills are all due, and large, in January. Numa Pompilius ought to have had sense enough to understand what January would mean ,and the chance is that the fall of Rome was initiated by his recklessness in messing up the calendar. The old Romans were a hardy lot, but January finally got them. Janus, the two faced god, should not have been dishonored by having the worst month named for him. Janus was a good sort. He had enemies, so was given two faces to enable him to look fore and aft, east and west at the same time. His house was a famous place. It was called the Temple of Janus, for great men in those days had temples like they now have summer cottages and house-boats. The Temple of Janus was never closed except in peace time. For that reason it was open most of the year, and Janus had a lot of company house parties, slumber parties and bridge parties. When there was a war going on, Janus closed the temple and lived in the attic. Not that he was afraid of being conscripted, but rather that he had to rest after a season of gayety. Having a face on the back and front of his head, he couldn't sleep except on his side. When he tried sleeping with one of his faces in the pillow he snored and suffocated by turns. In his attic he had a high-back chair with a hole for his face to protrude through. In this he could sleep with one set of eyes and watch out of the window with the other. He had to be vigilent after January was named for him. He was blamed by the people.—State Press in Dallas News.

A TRUE RULE

Among the many utterances of Abraham Lincoln, whose birth we celebrate this week, is the following, 'A true in determining to embrace or reject anything, is not whether it have any evil in it, but whether it have more more of evil in it than good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. Almost everything, especially of government policy, is an inseperable compound of the two, so that our best judgment of the preponderance between them is continually demanded.

A Cleveland bank, an exchange notes, to promote sound investments, featured so ludicrous a get-rich-quick scheme that it would be apparent to the simplest citizen. The bank placed in its window a highly colored poster advertising stock for sale in a fur farm to be operated without cost—the fur to be obtained from cats, who fed on rats, who fed on the skinned carcasses of the cats. At the end was a warning that this absurdity was not greater than the average get-rich-quick scheme. The bank had to remove the poster because, despite the warning, so many persons asked to buy some of the stock.

We trail along with those who believe Marian Talley should be singing instead of farming. There are too many farmers now and not enough good singers. The country generally believes that Marian quit singing because she failed to land a big contract, but with the radio and talkies Marian still has an opportunity to furnish entertainment to her fellows. There are still thousands who would delight to hear her sing and believe that she should let some others who are singing raise the wheat while she keeps up her practice.

The problem of how to keep people at home has been solved by the radio Before the advent of the radio, any time would do for the family to get home, but since a large number of radio fans have been developed, each has a favorite that he wants to get home in time to hear. A local meeting was dismissed recently an hour earlier than it otherwise would have been, because the chairman wanted to get home in time to hear Amos and Andy.

Henry Ford believes that the world's opportunities are just beginning to break.

The city manager form of government is in operation in 430 American cities.

great company of American people who take it seriously for the traditional sentiment of it. There is an old idea that birds began to mate at this time and when romance springs from the snows of winter the young turn to amorous missives on that day. Folk lore and superstition have a large part in the psychological make up of man. It is good in a way. It turns him from the sordid things of life and makes him see birds mating in the spring time, the flowers and the waking life on the morning after the long winter night.

What startling information—this annual toll of flames in America. The following was released by S. P. Cross local insurance agent:

The American people strike seven hundred million matches a day. In the United States 15,000 people were burned to death in 1929 and more than 40,000 persons injured by fire, and many of them crippled for life. Over 300,000 homes were destroyed by fire last year, likewise, 200,000 factories, stores and office buildings, 35,000 farm buildings, 5,000 hotels, 1800 churches, 1800 schools, 700 theaters and 350 hospitals. Besides the people burned to death and those injured for life there were many thousand left homeless on account of fire in 1929.

Fire, water and wind are the three elements of destruction. We can't control wind and water, but as for fire, to a certain extent it can be controled, and from a viewpoint that if we American people do the very best they can with caution when lighting matches, smoking, building fires, or lighting fires in our houses, about the premises, or about our business, the fire losses in this country can be cut down, and one other important thing is that every home or business place should have the electric wireing done properly, for, since the electric light has come into popular use, many fires are being reported throughout the country 'fire by faulty wiring.'

The chain store controversy is taking precedence over a large number of Texas issues. Merchant Minute Men are being organized and at least one candidate for governor has a plank in his platform to aid the local merchants. Recently in Dallas a convention of retail merchants adopted the following as representing the attitude of local merchants and it looks as though 'KWKH and Hello World' Henderson has started something:

'The public is beginning to realize that the big Eastern and Northern owned chain store corporations contribute practically nothing to the upbuilding of Texas towns in which they do business. They do not contribute to the Chambers of Commerce, the churches, charities, 'Y's, Boy or Girl Scouts, community chests, or civic movement. They do not patronize the local insurance men or borrow at the local banks. They stifle the growth of civic pride, paralyze the community spirit, eliminate credit accomodations, and sap the towns of capital. All their profits are sent out of Texas to their headquarters in the North and East. They invest nothing in this State. The situation is a serious one and pregnant with disaster, especially to the smaller towns and eventually to the larger ones.

that I have made and found good. Tell the President that while he is troubled with tariffs and temperence to remember that when the oak leaves get about as large as a squirrel's ear, the red birds will be singing and it will be time to go fishing and when he goes to his camp on the Rapidan I will go to mine on Devil's River and be only two hours drive from that peculiar stream, the Rio Grande that is dry on one side and wet on the other. On the wet side it is no experiment.

Sincerely,
R. D. BROWN

February 5, 1930

Mr. R. D. Brown,
Cameron, Texas,
Dear Mr. Brown:

'I have just returned from the White House, where I delivered in person to President Hoover the two fish baits which you sent.

'The President opened the package while I was there, and commented on the bait. He asked me to thank you for sending same to him, and to tell you that they arrived in the nick of time, as he was expecting to leave the latter part of the week for a ten days fishing trip in Florida, and like all good fishermen, he was going to look into the condition of his tackle before starting.

'I made an appointment yesterday to see the President at 11:45 a. m., today, for this purpose, and the press found out I had an engagement there, and wanted to know the object of it, and I think they are going to write a little story about the incident.

'I also delivered to the President the letter which you wrote me concerning the time to go fishing, and about the peculiar stream known as the Rio Grande, but as to this he made no comment.

'With kindest personal regards,

Very truly yours,
LUTHER A. JOHNSON

Washington, Feb. 5.—In an appointment with President Hoover at noon to-day, Representative Luther A. Johnson, Corsicana, presented the chief executive with two fly fish baits compliments of R. D. Brown, viec president of the Cotton Compress Company, Cameron, Texas. The baits, an invention of Mr. Brown, made a timely gift and will be used on Mr. Hoover's contemplated fishing trip off the coast of Florida, planned for the near future.

OIL TOPS DERRICK IN WILD FLOW OF TAYLOR WILDCAT WELL NOW CASED AND BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

(Taylor Daily Press)

Coming to heads approximately 20 minutes apart this morning and throwing a stream of oil over the crown block of a 112 foot derrick, the discovery well on the J. C. Abbott farm twelve miles southeast of here has proved itself a real gusher with an average flow of around 700 barrels a day. The well has now been flowing for three weeks.

The well was turned loose yesterday so that it could clear itself of some mud and shale left in the bottom of the hole and this morning before the oil was turned into the battery of storage tanks, it was making its usual show without let up.

At the present time the storage capacity in steel tanks just completed is about 4000 barrels which would only be sufficient for a five or six day run. This makes it a problem due to the fact that thus far an outlet for the oil has not been secured and it was found necessary to put on a control block late today.

Two surveys for pipe lines are said to be underway today, one by George B. Peterman and the other by Chapman who brought in the discovery well. The first survey is to lead into Taylor and the other will be one miel east of Thrall on the Missouri Pacific lines.

The derricks were completed yesterday for two other test wells and drilling equipment is expected to be moved to these sites within the next three days, contracts have been signed for a dozen others.

The Simms Oil Company is erecting a steel derrick on the Lawrence traet a quarter of a mile east of the discovery well.

George Peterman and associates are now ready to start drilling on the Peterman-J. C. Abbott well located 300 feet northwest of the discovery well. J. W. Sconyers will also start drilling next week on the Sconyers well on the J. K. Lawrence tract about a half mile north. J. C. Chapman is starting work on a derrick for a second well on the Fuchs property 300 feet south of the discovery well.

With the first two days of sunshiny weather the oil fraternity is beginning to find its way to Taylor with ever increasing numbers.

Safety Features In New Chevrolet Cars

Evidence of the manner in which the automobile manufacturer is furthering the cause of safety by eliminating the hazard of mechanical mishaps is shown by the many safety features incorporated in the new 1930 Chevrolet.

Notable among the safety devices in the car are the Chevrolet-designed internal brakes which are new in their field. Many a motorist has had the unnerving experience of descending a long mountain grade to find his brakes becoming less effective the farther he descends—a failure known technically as 'fadeout' and due to heat generated between the brake shoe and drum which warps the shoe and lessens the contact of the brake lining with the drum. The hotter the brakes got, the less efficient they became.

Tests on the General Motors Proving Ground show tha fadeout has been eliminated in the new Chevrolet brake by a method of construction known as the 'articulated shoe type,' which compensates for heat distortion, and assures uniform braking facilities under all conditions of temperature. The wear on the brake lining also is uniform, and assures far greater service out of a set of linings than the old type brakes.

Test Chevrolets on the proving ground have as high as 28,000 miles on a set of linings. It is pointed out that the average motorist will obtain considerably greater mileage in view of the severe driving to which test cars are put. Further tests show the brake will stop a car traveling thirty miles per hour in two and two-tenths seconds within a distance of 48 feet.

The brakes are internal expanding all around, operating with equal efficiency on all four wheels. The parking brake is separate and operates on the rear drum. Adjustments are easily accessible without the removal of any plates.

Another safety feature of the new Chevrolet is the non-glare windshield on the new Fisher bodies. By the simple expedient of tilting the windshield slightly inward, instead of mounting it vertically, the reflected light of an approaching or following headlamp is deflected downward away from the driver's eyes. The twin-beam headlights, which enable the driver to throw the light on the road out of the eyes of an approaching driver, are a further Chevrolet contribution to the greater safety of the highways.

Tyler Training Built For Ambitious People

The Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration, Tyler, Texas, was founded for the primary purpose of giving ambitious young men and young women from the average homes an opportunity to capatilize the bigger opportunities of the world of business. The officials and faculty of this great specialized training institution recognize that there are thousands of young people in the Southwest who are qualified so far as academic education and native ability are concerned, and far above-than-ordinary responsibilities. They have within themselves the power to deevlop and advance. All such young men and women need to achieve an above-the-average success is a proper start.

That is exactly what the courses at T. C. C. are designed to supply. And because this school recognizes that profitable employment is the goal of every student—and that the earliest possible employment is necessary for the greatre majority—the courses have been arranged and instruction methods developed to permit all students to advance rapidly, but to let the individual student advance just as rapidly as is consistent with thoroughness. Other students cannot hold you back. You make your own schedule.

There are over thirty-five courses offered at Tyler Commercial College, anyone of which will prepare you for a good position immediately upon graduation. A Brand New General Purpose Tractor

That's far ahead of anything you've ever seen

NOW you can get the tractor you've always wanted—a powerful, light weight, fast moving and easy to handle tractor that is as practical for planting and cultivating row crops as it is for plowing, threshing and the usual run of tractor jobs. It's the new Model "CC" Case—a real general purpose tractor.

The rear wheels can be quickly and easily set wider apart to fit the rows when cultivating, and just as easily changed back to plowing and disking width.

Two foot brakes that work on the differential, independent of the steering device, aid in handling the tractor on slopes and over rough land. You can hold either of the rear wheels and pivot on it when you want to make a short turn.

You can sit down, stand up or change about as you choose. The controls are conveniently placed. . .the steering gear is very fast. . . the front wheels respond quickly to the slightest turn . . .all in all the tractor is remarkably easy to operate.

You will be as enthusiastic about this tractor as we are. Come in and let us tell you more about it.

HELPING YOUNG FOLK TO BECOME BANKERS

Through the American Institute of Banking, which is the American Bankers Association's educational section, the banking profession is educating 35,000 bank men and women in the technical and scientific departments of their work. These students are enabled by this institute, which is entirely non-commercial in its operations, to obtain a grasp of the finer points of banking without interrupting their employment or interfering with their earnings, in their bank jobs.

The courses given, including banking economics and law and bank administration in all the departments, have been worked out under the direction of senior college educators and the lectures are always given by practical men, such as lawyers in the legal courses, experts in banking operations and college professors in the economics courses. There are chapters with meeting rooms in over 200 cities and also a number of smaller study groups are fostered with correspondence aid.

It has been said that the A. I. B., as it is familiarly known throughout the banking field, is the greatest adult educational organization in the world and is supplying the banking business with the largest supply of trained workers each year that any comparable line of business is receiving. The organization holds an annual convention attended by hundreds of young bank workers as well as senior bank officers actively interested in further in the institute's educational work at which numerous technical subjects of practical banking application are presented and discussed. This year's convention will be held at Denver. Colorado, June 16 to 20.

Mrs. Joe Denson Is Hostess Valentine Party For Club

A heart motif, symbolic of St. Valentine's Day, furnished the theme for a pleasant afternoon last Thursday when Mrs. Joe Denson entertained members of the 42 Club. Score pads and tallies in heart design, potted cyclamen in the customary red, scarlet table covers, and table favors of satin heart-shaped boxes of candy were all reminders of the approaching day.

Following the games, the hostess served creamed tuna in patties, hot rolls, pink tinted bread and butter sandwiches in heart shape, red apples stuffed with nuts and topped with whipped cream, olives, and date nut ice cream. Trays were used for the service and they were laid with green glassware, furnished a lovely contrast with the other appointments of red.

Description of the hero in 'Running the Gauntlet.'

The Hero

Duncan was a bold, daring person or he would never have stayed to witness the running of the gauntlet and wouldn't have trapped the Huron that was about to kill the brave stranger. Duncan was a typical pioneer. He wore buckskin shirt and breeches fringed at the seams; he wore Indian moccasins. His hat resembled those that the pioneers of the west wore and at his side was a sheathed hunting knife. In one hand he had his trustworthy gun with which he saved his life many times.

Ernest Sharpe.

After reading this story it was reproduced in our own words.

Running the Gauntlet

The night was rapidly descending but there lingered sufficient light to see the pathways that met in a crossroad. Out of one of these paths a line of Indian warriors advanced toward the dwellings. A startling cry called the 'death halo' was heard. This camp seemed alive with commotion. Warriors, squaws and children grabbed arms and hurriedly formed a narrow lane. Large piles of brush were lighted to give enough light for the shadowsd niches of the wood.

A little in advance stood two men. One stood erect and firm, ready to meet his death; the other bowed his head as if terror-stricken. The former stepped forward as a signal yell was given. Instead of rushing thru the hostile lines, he turned short and leaped the heads of rows of children. He raced back and forth and finally gained the woods. A tall Indian raised his weapon to kill him, but a man stuck out his foot and the Indian fell. When the dazed Indian came to his senses, he saw his captive quietly leaning against a post of the lodge.

Topic sentences developed into short paragraphs.

Cling! Clang! Went the bell. It was a joyful sound to the colonists, who had been fighting for liberty. On July 4, 1776 the streets of Philadelphia were crowded with people while on the inside of the building the Declaration of Independence was being signed. A little boy who had been watching ran to tell the man in the belfry to ring for liberty.

Howard Terry.

I was descending the stairs. Crash! There I was lying on the floor at the foot of the stairs. Looking down at me there were three impish faces 'Who pushed me?' I asked, sternly.

'It was she,' said Alice pointing at Cathryn. I was about to catch her when mother stepped between Cathryn and me.

Hazel Owen.

Charlie Smith doesn't have any more wrecks. He has a horse and buggy now.

An Art Exhibit is to be in the Ada Henderson building this week. Tickets are only 10 cents. The public is invited.

On a cold night in November they were all sitting in the front room. It was I who came running to tell the family of a fire. Just then, Cling! Clang! went the fire bell. We put on our caps and coats and started out 'Was it you who saw the fire first,' said Dad. The blaze was north of us and we went toward it. A piece of timber nearly hit me while we were there. It was a bad night and on our way back, the sleet hit us like shot.

These Things Make for Better Business

The story is told that once there was a man who never heard of insomnia until he read about it in a patent medicine advertisement. After that he had a bad case of nervous breakdown caused by lying awake nights worrying for fear he might get it and wouldn't be able to sleep again.

Of course the above is merely a story, but there is a grain of truth in it.

The power of suggestion is well known to everyone. Merchants know that a great many of the sales made in their store have come about as the result of suggestion.

A man tries a new breakfast food, a new shot gun shell, a new cultivator because somewhere he has seen the suggestion in advertising that this one is better and gives the reason.

A woman buys a new coat, a new hat, a new pair of shoes, not because the ones she has are worn out, but because the suggestion has been received that the new one is warmer and better looking than the old one.

Business everywhere has been built up by just such suggestions, and the best medium for conveying these suggestions to the customer is by advertising.

The efficacy of advertising has been too well proven to permit of any argument or dispute or difference of opinion.

All about us are merchants and industries that have paved the road to success by advertising—good, judicious advertising, backed by the right merchandise, good service and modern merchandising methods.

It is a combination that has never failed to build a better and a more prosperous and substantial business.

When the dazed Indian came to his senses, he saw his captive quietly leaning against a post of the lodge.

Charlie Smith.

Topic sentences developed into short paragraphs.

Cling! Clang! Went the bell. It was a joyful sound to the colonists, who had been fighting for liberty. On July 4, 1776 the streets of Philadelphia were crowded with people while on the inside of the building the Declaration of Independence was being signed. A little boy who had been watching ran to tell the man in the belfry to ring for liberty.

Howard Terry.

I was descending the stairs. Crash! There I was lying on the floor at the foot of the stairs. Looking down at me there were three impish faces 'Who pushed me?' I asked, sternly.

'It was she,' said Alice pointing at Cathryn. I was about to catch her when mother stepped between Cathryn and me.

Hazel Owen.

Charlie Smith doesn't have any more wrecks. He has a horse and buggy now.

An Art Exhibit is to be in the Ada Henderson building this week. Tickets are only 10 cents. The public is invited.

On a cold night in November they were all sitting in the front room. It was I who came running to tell the family of a fire. Just then, Cling! Clang! went the fire bell. We put on our caps and coats and started out. 'Was it you who saw the fire first,' said Dad. The blaze was north of us and we went toward it. A piece of timber nearly hit me while we were there. It was a bad night and on our way back, the sleet hit us like shot.

These Things Make for Better Business

The story is told that once there was a man who never heard of insomnia until he read about it in a patent medicine advertisement. After that he had a bad case of nervous breakdown caused by lying awake nights worrying for fear he might get it and wouldn't be able to sleep again.

Of course the above is merely a story, but there is a grain of truth in it.

The power of suggestion is well known to everyone. Merchants know that a great many of the sales made in their store have come about as the result of suggestion.

A man tries a new breakfast food, a new shot gun shell, a new cultivator because somewhere he has seen the suggestion in advertising that this one is better and gives the reason.

A woman buys a new coat, a new hat, a new pair of shoes, not because the ones she has are worn out, but because the suggestion has been received that the new one is warmer and better looking than the old one.

Business everywhere has been built up by just such suggestions, and the best medium for conveying these suggestions to the customer is by advertising.

The efficacy of advertising has been too well proven to permit of any argument or dispute or difference of opinion.

All about us are merchants and industries that have paved the road to success by advertising—good, judicious advertising, backed by the right merchandise, good service and modern merchandising methods.

It is a combination that has never failed to build a better and a more prosperous and substantial business.

BANKERS TO HOLD GREAT CONVENTION

Cleveland, Ohio, has been designated for the 1930 annual convention of the American Bankers Association. This organization, which numbers about 20,000 banks with $65,000,000,000 in assets, is annually the nation's most important financial event. The attendance ranges between five and ten thousand.

Cleveland is especially significant in the history of the Association's educational traditions since it was in this city, when the organization last met there in the year 1899, that the original resolution was presented looking to the formation of an educational section. This subsequently resulted in the American Institute of Banking in which are now enrolled 35,000 bank men and women engaged in the study of the technical and scientific phases of the business.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASK LAWS TO CURB CHAIN STORES; TO BE ISSUE IN TEXAS GUVANATORIAL CAMPAIGN

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 12.—For the first time in the history of Texas as far as known, the small independent retailers, who make up the great majority of the state's business men, will ask aid, as a body, from their state legislature.

To show their earnestness as well as the gravity of the situation which they assert confronts them, they are organizing a statewide body with the frank announcement that they are going into politics for the purpose of saving their own commercial lives.

The continued encroachment of the Northern and Eastern-owned chain stores upon the business of the native Texan grocers, druggists, hardware dealers, filling station owners, etc., is given as the reason why these independents are putting on their fighting clothes and marching forth to war.

The first gun is to be fired on Wednesday, Feb. 12 (Lincoln's birthday) when a meeting of independent merchants from all parts of Texas will be held at Dallas. There will be a meeting of the merchants at the Baker Hotel at 2 p. m., and a mass meeting at City Hall Auditorium at 8 p. m. The call is sent out by H. G. Harcrow, executive secretary of the Home Merchants Protective League, the state-wide organization now in the process of formation but already with members everywhere from Amarillo to Galveston and from Texarkana to El Paso it is said.

The headquarters of the League are at 717 South Ervay Street, Dallas where Secretary Harcrow and his assistants are perfecting their plans for the big meeting. The program, as outlined, will embrace a discussion of protective legislation against foreign owned chains; the adoption of a working plan for the passage of such legislation and the perfection of a political organization, with a chairman in each senatorial district to work for the election of candidates favorable to the views of the League and the home merchant.

The meeting, it is announced will be open to all independent merchants of Texas, whether present members of the League or not. Speakers of note will address the members and delegates and will tell of the 'inner workings' of the chains, their alleged competitive practices, etc., it is said.

'The interest being shown in this movement and in the coming meeting is most gratifying,' said Mr. Harcrow. 'Ever since the first announcements of our plans we have been getting letters and telegrams from all parts of the State, offering help in our fight for fair play. The public is beginning to realize that the big Eastern and Northern-owned chain store corporations contribute practically nothing to the upbuilding of the Texas towns and cities in which they are located. They do not contribute to the chambers of commerce, the churches, the charities, the 'Ys', the Boy and Girl Scouts, the community chests, the county or district fairs nor to any other charitable uplife, community or civic improvement. They do not patronize the local insurance men or borrow at the local banks. They stifle the growth of civic pride, paralyze the community spirit, eliminate credit accommodations, and sap the towns of capital. All their profits are sent out of Texas to their headquarters in the North and East. They invest nothing in this state.

'The situation is a serious one and pregnant with disaster, especially to the smaller towns and eventually hurtful to the large ones. We are organizing to combat these conditions while we yet have strength to fight.'

MRS. CONN MOODY HOSTESS TO MONDAY NIGHT BRIDGE

The Valentine motif was used very effectively in all appointments when Mrs. Conn Moody entertained the Monday Night Bridge Club this week at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. D. Bigbee. Tallies were heart-shaped, one-half of them had a pasteboard key attached to them, and the other half had the designs of these keys traced on them. Partners were found by matching the key to the design.

Cinnamon hearts and salted nuts were served during the games in individual red heart-shaped mint cups. Following the games, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Bigbee, served a red molded salad in heart design, heart-shaped sandwiches and coffee. Table favors were Valentine boxes filled with homemade candy, and these were won by Misses Bill Fontaine, Laverne Bowmer and Bess DuBois.

Bridge table markers in novelty design went to Mrs. Penn Wolf for high score and Miss Bill Fontaine was given a set of bridge pencils as consolation for low score.

HEALTH AGAIN, THANKS TO FAMOUS KONJOLA

STOMACH AILMENT OF 7 YEARS QUICKLY YIELDS TO POWER OF NEW MEDICINE

'For seven years I was the helpless victim of stomach trouble of the worst sort,' said Mrs. Mary Brandon, 5889 Maffit street, St. Louis. 'It did not matter what I ate, belching and often vomiting spells followed the simplest meal. The gas so pressed against my heart that I became short of breath and faint. Sour, hot liquids seared my throat until the heartburn was often frightful. I grew weak and lost weight and strength. No medicine I tried helped me.

MRS. MARY BRANDON

'Day by day and week by week I began with Konjola, my system improved. The gas no longer forms in my stomach now and the bloated sensation has passed. I have an excellent appetite and can eat a hearty meal without the least discomfort. The pains of heartburn are a thing of the past. I have gained weight and energy and my friends remark upon the change in my appearance. I can never express my gratitude for the relief which this great medicine has brought me.'

Greater Beauty - Finer Performance

Never has a Chevrolet car won greater praise for its appearance than the new Chevrolet Six. Its new Fisher bodies reveal in every detail the artistry that has made the Fisher name famous throughout the motor car world. In beauty of line and color, in balance and harmony of design, they represent one of the greatest style triumphs in Fisher history. Upholsteries are richer and more durable. The instrument panel carries a new and more attractive grouping of the control instruments. Seats are wider and deeper. In fact, not a single feature has been overlooked that would add to the comfort and convenience of both driver and passengers.

In addition to its new beauty, the new Chevrolet Six represents a remarkable advance in every phase of performance. Its improved six-cylinder valve-in-head engine has been increased to 50 horsepower—giving faster acceleration, and greater reserve power. Steering has been made safer and easier. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers provide exceptional riding comfort. Fully enclosed, internal-expanding, weather-proof brakes give positive braking control. And numerous structural improvements add to the car's dependability, endurance and long life. Come in today and see this car. And remember, it is now available—

PLEA IS MADE FOR COUNTY HEALTH NURSE

PARENT-TEACHERS LAY NEED BEFORE COURT FRIDAY BUT ACTION DEFERED

Speaking for the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, Hon. Graham Gillis presented to the Commissioner's Court in session Thursday morning petitions urging the employment of a health nurse for duty in the Milam county schools. The matter has been under consideration for some time, and it remains only for the court to take action, which they have promised to do at another meeting held next week, probably on Monday.

Dr. H. N. Barnet of Austin, a member of the state board of health, was also present at the meeting, and he addressed the body, explaining the need of a nurse and the conditions attached to the employing of one. If the county will appropriate $1500.00 towards the salary and expenses of a nurse for one year, the state will supplement this with a like amount. A sum of $250 was netted from the sale of Christmas Health Seals in Milam county, and this, together with a similar sum from the Red Cross organization in the county, was offered the court Thursday morning to be used on its appropriation, thereby leaving only $1000 for the Commissioners to supply.

Judge Gillis, in his introductory remarks, reminded the court that large sums were spent in the county to conserve agricultural assets and that much interest was manifested in domestic progress, and he was glad of these, but that the greatest asset, the children of the county, were being woefully neglected. He read communications from Hon. O. D. Graham of Thorndale and Hon. E. A. Camp of Rockdale, in which they expressed their regret at not being able to attend the meeting and in which they heartily endorsed the employment of a nurse. Petitions were then read from Minerva, Buckholts, and Cameron, and it was announced that other petitions were in the possession of Mrs. Survant of Thorndale, chairman of the County Council, but that she was unable to bring them to the meeting.

Dr. Barnet attended the meeting at the request of officials of the County Council organization. He was accompanied by Dr. W. A. Davis of Austin, also of the state board of health.

Mrs. J. P. Love made a short talk in behalf of the members of the County Council and Mrs. Kathryn Robbins made an impassioned plea for a favorable action from the commissioners.

New Dodge Brothers Six Has Features That Are Outstanding

'The new Dodge Brothers Six is a striking example of dignified, sturdy automobile construction at an amazingly low price,' says John Sapp of the Sapp Motor Company, local Dodge and Plymouth dealers. 'It has a number of interesting, outstanding features which distinguish it among six-cylinder motor cars in its price group.

Improved Mono-piece body construction, incorporating many added advantages due to recent advances in welding and stamping is brought to the low-priced, six-cylinder field on this new car. Quantity production enables Dodge Brothers to offer style leadership in this type body at normal prices for the first time since this important development in body building was introduced in the industry.

The genuine merit of the new Dodge Six is eloquently expressed in the basic simplicity of its design. The richness and distinction thus attained appeals directly to the discriminating value-seeker.

The brilliant performance of this new car is due to the noteworthy engineering experience that has gone into the design and construction of the engine. The power plant is especially notable for the amou[illegible] power per cubic inch of piston [illegible]placement and per pound of engine weight which it developes. It is also capable of continuous operation at sustained speeds without losing power. An exceptional degree of smoothness is achieved by the design of the heavy, rigidly supported, balanced and counterweighted crankshaft. The engine develops a maximum of 61 horsepower.

Comfortable riding qualities form another outstanding feature of [illegible] new Dodge Six. The ingenious method of mounting the floorboards of the Mono-piece bodies directly on the substantial frame of the car gives the new six an inherent advantage in balance and roadability. Well designed springs of generous length add immeasurably to the comfort of passengers.

In both open and closed models there is plenty of width and headroom for passengers and driver. Narrow center posts and side supports permit greater visibility. With seams and body joints welded instead of riveted, annoying squeaks and rattles are entirely eliminated in the new Dodge.

Hydraulic, internal expanding four-wheel brakes give the driver positive control at all times. This, too, forms an outstanding feature of the new Dodge.

Body design, brakes, sturdy steering mechanism, engine flexibility, and better vision all combine to increase the safety factor in this car.

Economy of operation and low cost of maintenance are insured by the efficiency engineered into the power plant, and by the durable construction of all body and chassis units.

The first of these new Dodge Six cars has been sold and delivered in Cameron to Mrs. F. B. Joiner.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The enrollment at the training school has increased from twenty to twenty-nine. There are now eleven studying the Old Testament and 18 the New Testament. Besides this, there are ten children in the Childrens Class which is being conducted by Miss Gladys Jewel Copus.

Sunday, February 2, 48 were in Sunday school. Last Sunday 58 were there, making us second in average in the local Sunday school contest. Along with this contest we are stressing our Pentecostal campaign. The Sunday school goal is 'Everyone bring one' and the church goal is 'Everyone win one.' While the purpose of the contest is to have 1800 in Sunday school by Easter, we feel that the big idea is to have 1800 in regular attendance by that time or before, if possible.

Mrs. Hardigree favored the audience Sunday morning with a vocal solo. Her voice has been well trained but back of this lies a natural talent. Each of her solos are inspirational and furnishes food for thought. Mrs. Hardigree is very active in church work and is especially interested in the young people.

The Christian church observed Scout Day and Bennie Archer, Scout Master, made a splendid talk, giving the oath a Scout has to take and also the laws by which he must abide. Ben abides by the oath and laws and makes a good Scout Master.

The program for Sunday, February 16 is very promising. Sunday school will be at 9:45 and church services at 11 a. m. with our pastor speaking on 'The purpose of Pentecost.' By special request the sermon Sunday evening at 7:15 will be 'Souls in Prison.' The subject itself is enough to make people want to know more about it and a large audience is expected.

The invitation Mr. Hardigree is offering is 'If dismal outside, come in here and enjoy the sunshine.'

We take this method of extending to the members of this church and the friends in the community the opportunity of sharing in the love gift that will be made for Clyde Yarbrough to help defray his hospital expenses. We do this in appreciation of him and the work he is doing.

To the Juniors, Intermediates, Seniors and Young people of the First Christian Church:

You are invited and urged to be at the church Sunday, March 2, at 6:00 p. m. A treat is in store for you and you won't want to miss it—so be there.

FINDS STATE BANKS WELL SUPERVISED

Bankers Body Sees Less Politics in Banking Departments With Better Facilities in the Hands of the Responsible Officials.

A survey of state banking departments by the State Bank Division. American Bankers Association, discloses a distinct tendency the past five years to take bank supervision out of politics, to increase the discretionary powers of bank commissioners, to lengthen their terms of office, to supply then with adequate forces of qualified examiners and to relieve banking departments of duties foreign to banking, says a recent statement issued by the association.

"We have consistently urged that the office of bank commissioner be a free from partisan politics as the judiciary itself and that it be divorced from all other functions of state government," the statement says. "Further, that his term of office be made more secure and lasting, with sufficient salary and power granted to attract and retain the services of men of outstanding executive ability, courage, resourcefulness and successful banking experience.

"Five years ago the first survey of state banking departments by the division demonstrated the need for improvements. On the basis of data now in hand it is evident that, through the revision of statutes in many states, rapid steps are being taken in the right direction. One by one the states are coming to recognize the primary importance of strong, competent banking departments. The demand for increasing the effectiveness of banking departments is beginning to be met."

How Bank Commissioners Are Chosen

The office of bank commissioner is now operated as an independent department of state government in thirty-four states, the bankers find. In two states the bank commissioner is elected at general elections; in one he is appointed from eligible lists of the civil service and in another he is selected by the banks. In one state the bankers' association elects a list of five names from which the governor appoints one as superintendent of banks; in another he is appointed by the State Corporation Commission and in another by the State Banking Board.

"Terms of office of bank commissioners have been lengthened in several states during the last five years," the report says. "In 28 states the term is four years, in one, five years, and in three it is six years and in some the term is indefinite. A short term is condemned on the grounds that the commissioner has insufficient time to become thoroughly conversant with his field work. A longer term permits his rendering useful service through capitalizing his experience. Five years ago the average length of service was less than three years, while now it has risen to five years.

Higher Standards Required

"Signs of an awakening to the necessity of making successful banking experience a qualification for bank commissioner are evident. While eleven states report no banking experience necessary, the majority require experience of this sort, ranging from two to five years. Twelve states now have banking boards, with powers ranging from acting in an advisory capacity to full power over all state banks to issue and reject charters.

"A healthy sign is the number of reports which disclose that the commissioners have full power to appoint bank examiners or that these appointments are made from civil service lists. This power is now granted to the commissioner by twenty-seven states. Three require that selection be from civil service lists. Complaints are still made in a few states of political pressure in the appointment of examiners, but the contrary seems to be true in a growing number of states. The most capable commissioner can not successfully perform his duties unless he is able to command the services of efficient, honest examiners. The safety of depositors is dependent on their work, and their appointment, fitness and compensation are highly important. The number of examiners has increased 25 per cent in the last five years."

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY

Ladies of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met at the church Monday afternoon for a business session with Mrs. Ernest Eggert presiding.

An all day meeting was held at the church Wednesday lasting from ten o'clock in the morning until two o'clock in the afternoon. Lunch was served at the church.

The program, which was on foreign missions, was as follows:

Subject: 'Millions Are Waiting.'

The devotional consisted of congregational singing of 'All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name,' a prayer by Mrs. Ernest Eggert, reading of Psalm 67 by Mrs. Graham Gillis, and the singing of the Doxology. Mrs. Geo. Cay, who had charge of the program led in the call to prayer and praise.

Mrs. Dan Tyson read a letter from Mrs. Edminston, missionary to Korea, and this was followed by a vocal duet, 'How Long Must They Wait?' by Mesdames G. E. Sutton and B. P. Hurdle. Mrs. Meyer led in prayer, after which Mrs. Judd Davis read a letter from Mr. Newland, another missionary from Korea. A short devotional followed in which Mrs. J. H. Sapp read Psalm 98 and gave a prayer on that. A short talk on 'Selfishness and Lack of Love' was given by Mrs. Cay, after which Mrs. John Muse introduced the subject ef China by reading an article on conditions in China, and Mrs. Graham Gillis gave a summary of the book which the Auxiliary has so recently studied, 'The Church in China.'

Lunch was served at the church. During the afternoon session Miss Gene Adams of Buckholts read an article on conditions in Japan and a musical number followed, a vocal duet, 'He Lives on High,' by Mesdames John Watson and Ted Epperson. Mrs. Wilson discussed conditions in the Orient and Mrs. Epperson then sang a solo, 'A Perfect Day.' Introducing a study of Mexico, Mrs. Frank Lesovsky read a letter from Dr. Woodson, a missionary to Mexico. Mrs. Hurdle and Mrs. Sutton again appeared in vocal duet, this time singing 'Inspirer and Hearer of Prayer.' Mrs. Cay talked about conditions in Mexico, after which Mrs. Hurdle sang as a solo, 'With Jesus.'

A free will offering was taken as Mrs. Sutton sang 'Why Should He Love Me So?' The meeting was closed with congregational singing of 'God Be With You Till We Meet Again.'

Eight Cylinder Dodge Brings New Car To The Dodge Line

'With the introduction of the new Dodge Brothers Eight-in-Line there is brought to the field of eight-cylinder cars many features of commanding value hitherto unknown in this price group,' says John Sapp of the Sapp Motor Company, local Dodge and Plymouth dealers.

'Mono-piece body construction is perhaps the most interesting innovation in the entire field of eight-cylinder automobiles due to the invasion of this market by Dodge Brothers. Down-draft carburetion and metric thread spark plugs are also new in the eight-cylinder passenger car realm. Metric spark plugs permit the engine to more efficiently meet the requirements of both idling and high-sped driving conditions. They are now also considered a necessity in racing car and airplane motors.

A special design of bowl-type headlamps and cowl-lamps, that effect a new and artistic blending of symmetrical body lines, is also introduced with the new Dodge Eight-in-Line.

'Although this new car embodies progressive principles of engineering and design, it retains all the basic ruggedness and dependability that have always characterized Dodge products.

'To express this rugged beauty, Dodge body designers have appropriated from the field of architecture a motif based on the principle that gives the modern skyscraper its finished appearance of strength and grace. The pattern formed by the perpendicular buttresses and recesses that are now in general use in the construction of towering buildings, worked into a combination of lines and shadows, forms the theme followed in the art treatment of Eight-in-Line bodies.

'Clear vision, ventilation windshields, set at a slant which not only prevent reflections but which also enhance the appearance of the body structure, are features of the improved Mono-piece bodies on this car.

'Color combinations include many fascinating new shades. Mohair, broadcloth and fine box-grain leather are the upholstering materials used.

'The entirely new, ingeniously designed L-head engine with eight cylinders in line embodies every feature provn practical by the huge Dodge Brothers engineering organization through many years of research and experimentation.'

The first of these new Dodge straight eight cars has been sold to W. B. Thomas at Rogers.

MAN FELT BLOATED

For Distress After Meals, He Takes Thedford's Black-Draught and Says He Obtains Relief.

Gulfport, Miss.—"I have used Black-Draught for about five years," says Mr. George Chevalier, of this city. "I keep it in my house all the time.

"When I feel bloated, and have headache after meals, my method of taking Black-Draught is to take from a pinch to a level teaspoonful in my mouth, dry, and wash it down with about half a glassful of water, regulating the dose according to the situation by taking more or less, according to how I feel.

"I usually take a dose on going to bed, when needed, and am relieved next morning.

"I don't know of any medicine that I would exchange for Black-Draught. I believe if anyone is suffering from constipation, and would use Black-Draught as outlined above, he would get relief."

Thousands of other men and women find Black-Draught of great help in relieving common ailments, due to constipation, biliousness and indigestion.

A survey of state banking departments by the State Bank Division. American Bankers Association, discloses a distinct tendency the past five years to take bank supervision out of politics, to increase the discretionary powers of bank commissioners, to lengthen their terms of office, to supply then with adequate forces of qualified examiners and to relieve banking departments of duties foreign to banking, says a recent statement issued by the association.

"We have consistently urged that the office of bank commissioner be a free from partisan politics as the judiciary itself and that it be divorced from all other functions of state government," the statement says. "Further, that his term of office be made more secure and lasting, with sufficient salary and power granted to attract and retain the services of men of outstanding executive ability, courage, resourcefulness and successful banking experience.

"Five years ago the first survey of state banking departments by the division demonstrated the need for improvements. On the basis of data now in hand it is evident that, through the revision of statutes in many states, rapid steps are being taken in the right direction. One by one the states are coming to recognize the primary importance of strong, competent banking departments. The demand for increasing the effectiveness of banking departments is beginning to be met."

How Bank Commissioners Are Chosen

The office of bank commissioner is now operated as an independent department of state government in thirty-four states, the bankers find. In two states the bank commissioner is elected at general elections; in one he is appointed from eligible lists of the civil service and in anothe. he is selected by the banks. In one state the bankers' association elects a list of five names from which the governor appoints one as superintendent of banks; in another he is appointed by the State Corporation Commission and in another by the State Banking Board.

"Terms of office of bank commissioners have been lengthened in several states during the last five years," the report says. "In 28 states the term is four years, in one, five years, and in three it is six years and in some the term is indefinite. A short term is condemned on the grounds that the commissioner has insufficient time to become thoroughly conversant with his field work. A longer term permits his rendering useful service through capitalizing his experience. Five years ago the average length of service was less than three years, while now it has risen to five years.

Higher Standards Required

"Signs of an awakening to the necessity of making successful banking experience a qualification for bank commissioner are evident. While eleven states report no banking experience necessary, the majority require experience of this sort, ranging from two to five years. Twelve states now have banking boards, with powers ranging from acting in an advisory capacity to full power over all state banks to issue and reject charters.

"A healthy sign is the number of reports which disclose that the commissioners have full power to appoint bank examiners or that these appointments are made from civil service lists. This power is now granted to the commissioner by twenty-seven states. Three require that selection be from civil service lists. Complaints are still made in a few states of political pressure in the appointment of examiners, but the contrary seems to be true in a growing number of states. The most capable commissioner can not successfully perform his duties unless he is able to command the services of efficient, honest examiners. The safety of depositors is dependent on their work, and their appointment, fitness and compensation are highly important. The number of examiners has increased 25 per cent in the last five years."

Eight Cylinder Dodge Brings New Car To The Dodge Line

'With the introduction of the new Dodge Brothers Eight-in-Line there is brought to the field of eight-cylinder cars many features of commanding value hitherto unknown in this price group,' says John Sapp of the Sapp Motor Company, local Dodge and Plymouth dealers.

'Mono-piece body construction is perhaps the most interesting innovation in the entire field of eight-cylinder automobiles due to the invasion of this market by Dodge Brothers. Down-draft carburetion and metric thread spark plugs are also new in the eight-cylinder passenger car realm. Metric spark plugs permit the engine to more efficiently meet the requirements of both idling and high-sped driving conditions. They are now also considered a necessity in racing car and airplane motors. A special design of bowl-type headlamps and cowl-lamps, that effect a new and artistic blending of symmetrical body lines, is also introduced with the new Dodge Eight-in-Line.

'Although this new car embodies progressive principles of engineering and design, it retains all the basic ruggedness and dependability that have always characterized Dodge products.

'To express this rugged beauty, Dodge body designers have appropriated from the field of architecture a motif based on the principle that gives the modern skyscraper its finished appearance of strength and grace. The pattern formed by the perpendicular buttresses and recesses that are now in general use in the construction of towering buildings, worked into a combination of lines and shadows, forms the theme followed in the art treatment of Eight-in-Line bodies.

'Clear vision, ventilation windshields, set at a slant which not only prevent reflections but which also enhance the appearance of the body structure, are features of the improved Mono-piece bodies on this car.

'Color combinations include many fascinating new shades. Mohair, broadcloth and fine box-grain leather are the upholstering materials used.

'The entirely new, ingeniously designed L-head engine with eight cylinders in line embodies every feature provn practical by the huge Dodge Brothers engineering organization through many years of research and experimentation.'

The first of these new Dodge straight eight cars has been sold to W. B. Thomas at Rogers.
